Dear Investors,

It is with great excitement that we unveil the Making More Health Investor Readiness Program Cohort for 2025. This year's cohort comprises a meticulously selected array of the most promising healthcare startups and scale-ups from Sub-Saharan Africa, exemplifying the pinnacle of entrepreneurial excellence across the healthcare and related sectors.

These trailblazing ventures are on the cusp of transformative growth, actively seeking Seed or Series A funding to propel their solutions into the spotlight of Africa's most discerning investors. Over the past decade, the Making More Health program has stood as a paragon of success, with previous cohorts securing significant investments, achieving remarkable milestones, and driving significant impact in their respective domains across different geographies.

The 2025 cohort is distinguished not only by their product disruptions and competitive market positions but also by their steadfast dedication to societal impact through pioneering healthcare solutions. These enterprises are spearheading the revolution in healthcare provision and accessibility across the continent.

We are immensely confident in the potential of these ventures to redefine the healthcare landscapes. We invite you to join us in championing their growth journey, fostering synergistic partnerships, and unlocking co-investment and exit opportunities.

Thank you for considering the exceptional ventures showcased in this program. Your commitment to nurturing innovation and supporting the vanguard of healthcare disruptors is instrumental in shaping a future where healthcare is universally accessible, affordable, and efficient. We are profoundly grateful for your pivotal role in this transformative journey with the Making More Health Investor Readiness Program 2025.

Best regards,

Boehringer Ingelheim Social Business Team
